1. ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER GRADE IV
RANGE—47, 52

Duties.—The duties of an Administrative Officer are so wide and so varied that they cannot be set out in detail. The officer working in a district is the Central Government’s agent. In that capacity he is required, through his close contact with the people, to explain the reasons for the Government’s action and to explain to the Government the needs of the people. He is responsible for seeing that the work of Government is adequately carried out, and in unusual cases, if need be, he must himself decide the Government’s policy. In cases of emergency, arising from civil commotion, epidemic, or sudden disaster, he may be compelled to commit the Government to the action which he on the spot decided is best in the out to the standards required by the Central Government and at the same time give them all the assistance he can to Government Departments and of Local Authorities, and is required to perform with discretion the many local statutory duties which devolve upon him. These responsibilities and duties call for a high degree of mental and physical energy.
Alternatively he may be posted to the central office of a Ministry, where the greatest precision in dealing with the detailed and complicated problems of Government is required. In whatever sphere of activity he is employed he must acquire a clear understanding of the policy laid down by the Central Government.

Qualification.—A degree of a recognised University.

(When posted abroad, foreign service allowance at the appropriate rate is payable in addition to salary.)

The functions of the Service are to represent Ghana in Commonwealth and foreign countries; to be the channel through which Ghana’s business with the governments of such countries is conducted; to keep the Government of Ghana informed of developments in such countries; to advise in the formation of foreign policy; to explain Ghana policy abroad; to promote good relations with Commonwealth and foreign countries, protect Ghana interest, and to foster Ghana trade. Candidates selected will in the first instance be posted either to the Ministry of External Affairs which is the headquarters of the Service from where they may be assigned to Ghana Missions abroad. The appointment will be subject to a 3-year period of probation, during which the officers will be required to complete satisfactorily a prescribed course of training to be decided; failure to complete satisfactorily the course of training or to pass the examination will be sufficient ground for the termination of the probationary period.

Duties.—(1) The work of a member of Branch “A” of the Service in a diplomatic post consists of obtaining and supplying information about the foreign country where he is stationed and submitting advice thereon in order that the Government of Ghana may be able to frame its policy towards that country; negotiating with foreign officials on behalf of the Government of Ghana; and representing his country. He may also, if he is in a consular post, have to fulfil various duties in connection with passports and visas, repatriation of citizens of Ghana.

(2) In the Ministry itself, the work of a member of Branch “A” consists broadly of analysing reports received from or about foreign countries with the object of keeping other Ministries informed and of giving his Ministry advice in the formulation of policy, and of conveying, in harmony with the views of other interested Ministries the wishes and instructions of the Government of Ghana to its representatives abroad. Much of the work in the Ministry will be of an administrative nature, and will be concerned with the running of the Ministry and of Ghana Missions abroad with the tackling of their financial establishment and personal problems, and with the general serving of and the maintenance of relations with Commonwealth and foreign missions in Ghana.

Qualifications.—Applicants must be Ghana citizens and must have recognised University degree. Applicants should also have attained their 22nd birthday but not have reached their 40th birthday.
